

Green Business Spotlight: Mast General Store

Mast General Store is always working on ways to improve their green practices. They continue working to reduce their footprint on the environment, as well as being responsible members of the community.

Mast General Store's purchase of Green Power in North Carolina and Tennessee helps to offset the electrical use of the stores, providing positive benefits to the environment.

Mast Transit is an employee incentive program to reduce their carbon footprint. Employees can earn incentives for car pooling, riding their bike to work, walking to work, or taking public transportation.

Mast General Store is also committed to preserving historical, as well as natural, resources. All of their stores are located in restored historic buildings.

Mast General Store recycles plastic, glass, paper, aluminum, metal cans, and cardboard. In addition, they reuse paper, boxes, and packing materials. They also have a recycling program for fluorescent bulbs from all their stores.
